Farmer Educator at Gibsons Farm

Starting salary is $800/week, or more based on experience and qualifications

Gibsons Farm is looking for a farmer educator for the summer 2025 season! Our farm is 8.5 acres of orchard, pasture, intensive market gardens, with a shady creek running through. We have sheep, dairy goats, chickens, and a couple ducks and miniature horses for fun. We are a group of passionate outdoor educators and farmers working to make this land more productive and involve kids in the process. We are looking for help this summer running Farm Camp for 6-12 year olds. Farming requires that you are physically fit and love working quickly, running (or skipping) from one task to the next. Farm camp requires that you LOVE empowering kids with new life skills and can be the biggest, funnest kid in the flock - helping kids chop wood, bake, cook using farm ingredients, handle farm animals, climb trees, build forts, fall in ditches, use sharp things - these are all part of the job description! If you are the type that likes kids sitting in rows, Farm Camp isn't for you. We are direct and honest in our teaching and engage our students in mature discussions about the reality of land, farming and food issues without preaching. People leave the farm with a sense of ownership, community, and empowerment. Our staff are relentlessly positive, inspiring, fun, hardworking, thoughtful, and engaging.

To apply, please call Robin at 604-306-7050 and/or send us a brief "letter of interest" to office@gibsonsfarm.ca. Include your contact information and what skills you might bring to the farm.

Thank you to all who apply, may it be a fulfilling summer!
